Père Castor's
English-French word book

3 February 2016
10,5 cm – 21 cm
264 pages
12,50 €

A word book to introduce little ones to English, in a friendly way.

It is a proven fact that being bilingual is a great asset in the development of thought and cognitive functions.

This bilingual edition of the famous compendium picture book by Père Castor enables children to learn vocabulary in everyday life in two languages at once: each image is accompanied by the English word and its equivalent in French. Children are therefore able to enrich their vocabulary and understand, very naturally, that the same thing or idea can be expressed by several different words in different languages. Suggestions for games allow the adult to join the child in discovering English in a fun way.

The section at the end of the book "My first 100 words in English" allows further vocabulary expansion (numbers, days of the week, colours etc.).

- Based on a word book which has been a huge publishing success (over 750.000 copies sold since the first edition in 1954!)
- Over 500 words!
- Bilingual entries to combine the two languages (English first, French afterwards)
- Suggestions for games to help parents

MY VERY FIRST STORIES

My very first stories

12 January 2016
18,5 cm – 18,5 cm
12 pages
8,50€

Good night, little one
By Alice Brière-Haquet & Aurélie Abolivier

The goodnight kiss, the special moment before going to sleep...

« Mummy Deer calls out in the forest: – « Little Fawn, it's bed time! »
And Daddy Boar grunts: « Sweet dreams, my little boars! »
Night has fallen and it's time to go to sleep. On each page the animals encourage their babies to go to bed with a final good-night kiss. A soft, warming story on the theme of bedtime.

On all fours and off you go!
By Élisabeth Coudol & Vincent Mathy

Spin, somersault, and look at me: I'll be walking soon!!

Before being able to walk like a grown-up, you must crawl, be held sitting, then stand up: it's the age of discovery...
This work follows the process of learning to walk with tenderness and humour. And, as a reward, new funny tricks to master. Vincent Mathy's vibrant colour artwork joyfully echoes the mischievous text.

Boudi-Boudin

By Jo Hoestland & Arnaud Boutin

Boudi-Boudin is never happy ...Not in the morning, not in the afternoon, not in the evening, NEVER!

Boudi-Boudin complains all the time: his shoes are too tight; his little bike is too high, the water in the bath is too hot, then too cold... feeling a little fed-up, his father gently makes fun of him: he thought he had a little boy but it's more like having a little pig who grunts and snorts about the house all day long! Boudi-Boudin finally explodes with laughter and then, hey presto, both of them are now grunting and snorting and laughing "oink oink!" right up to the ceiling!

While Mummy takes a nap

By Jo Hoestland & Claire Frossard

When Mummy has a rest, you must wait and be quiet alongside her...

Mummy is having a rest, so hush, you mustn't make any noise. No fire engine nee-naws, no to the racing car on the floor going Vroom!, no ball thrown against the wall – bang bang, -no animal noises and definitely no little aeroplane...It's so hard to keep quiet for such a long time! But as soon as Mummy wakes up, you can jump, shout and enjoy tea time together!

Can you spot (fairy tales)

14 October 2015
23 cm – 28 cm
48 pages
13,95 €

Discover or rediscover 3 tales in this compilation issue from the “Can you spot?” series.

Where has Little Red Riding Hood got to? The Big Bad Wolf, has anyone seen him? And where has Goldilocks been hiding? Three fairy tales, three stories and three situations where you must search for a character in a succession of illustrations bursting with detail, just like a search and find game. And that's not all: on each double page the young readers are also encouraged to find secondary features in the image: characters; places; objects, accessories, sweets etc. Following the success of a dozen individual titles, here is the first compilation issue of the “Can you spot?” series, focusing on 3 classic tales. Each one is illustrated by a different artist and consists of six stunning double page spreads bursting with colour.

Search and find boardbooks!

Come aboard and spot them all: a forgotten ticket, an aquarium left on the luggage racks, a funny pictogram drawn on a window, a passenger on all fours, or another one with a fishing rod sticking out of the window – what a ride! Each very colourful, highly illustrated spread takes us to a different time of the day (morning, lunchtime or the evening ride home!) and is bursting with funny details and recounts a particular moment of the journey as passengers come in and out! There are many things to spot and think about on the way: find the hidden animals, or random scattered objects, or even single out the passengers' good behaviour from the bad.

You are in for a ride full of surprises!

SEARCH & FIND

Journey by train

By Adrian Siroy

Available
26 cm – 21 cm
24 pages
12,00 €

A book in a fun format – travel over pages as if you were on a train!

It's time to depart! A businessman runs on the platform, briefcase in hand, while another looks for their carriage. At last the train can pull away! But the journey is eventful! The passengers are annoyed as children run along the corridors, strange animals are found in the carriages etc.

From the departure station to the final destination, passing through the carriages, restaurant, sleeper car, baggage hold, children's section, and even a surprise trip into the past, this incredible train journey, filled with colourful details and strange passengers, gives rise to observation games and reflection. The reader, like the passengers, does not know when the surprises will end!

Watch out for big bad wolf!
Big bear' cold day.

By Emile Jadoul

Available
16,5 cm – 22 cm
12 pages
9.95 €

Watch out, I'm counting to ten... eight, nine, ten... aaaand I'm coming! And off goes Big Bad Wolf with his big basket to look for the hidden ones. Oh! Who's there underneath the blanket, shaking? Lift the flap to uncover the small rabbit hiding! And what can you see there, behind the moving curtain? Lift the flap and discover a piglet and a small hen! And let's not forget about lifting the lid of the big wooden box where you'll find a little curly sheep, ready to join all of his friends in Big Bad Wolf's big basket! Now, it's time to eat. But eat what? Or who? Surely, not all of those little ones? No, eat together instead. And quick, so we can play hide-and-seek once more afterwards!

Sold in Italy and Spain!

Brrr... It has been snowing all day and Big Bear is on his way home. But who's hidden behind those shuddering bushes? Let's have a look, lift the flap and... oh, look who's there: Little Rabbit shaking with cold! And who's underneath Big Bear's hat now? Little Rabbit's little brother, all cosy in the warmth of Big Bear's big hat! But they're not the only ones to hide from the cold: two little birdies whose beaks were chattering behind a leaf can soon enjoy the warmth of Big Bear's scarf, and three tiny mice who were sheltering in a tree stump are being carefully rescued by Big Bear who puts them in his big basket. But let's all get in the warm, and quick, because now Big Bear himself struggles to keep warm! Luckily, Mama Bear was awaiting everyone at home, where she was getting some nice hot chocolate ready for all!

Everybody, wake up!

By Émile Jadoul

1 January 2016
17 cm – 21 cm
14 pages
12,50 €

One fine morning, a little bird decides to wake up the animals that are still asleep. Going from page to page, by lifting the flaps, each animal is woken from their sleep by a booming voice shouting “Get up!”

But when the little bird, exhausted from making so much effort, wants to go to bed, there are the same animals hiding who reply “Get up everyone! It’s not time for a nap!”

By Sonia Chaine & Adrien Pichelin

24 February 2016
21 cm - 18 cm
32 pages
10,50 €

Everyone knows the story of Red Riding Hood and The Three Little Pigs. Here is an original way to tell it, in images!

In this wordless version where the characters, places and objects are pictograms, the reader can completely reinvent their own version of this famous tale. The meaning of each pictogram is clearly laid out on the bookmark.

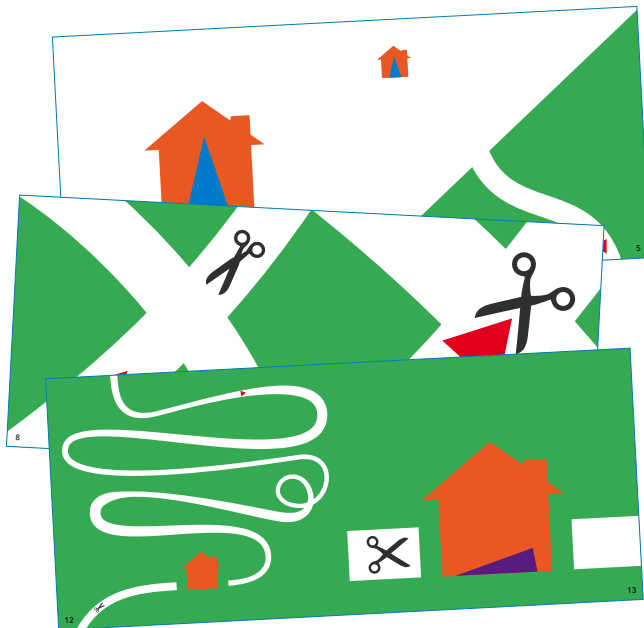

Follow the summary on the bookmark with the numbers corresponding to the pages, to help you tell the tale, or invent a new story in your own words, it's completely up to you! You can add noises, descriptions of the surroundings, what the characters look like, what they think, what they do...

There is no limit to the imagination and telling this story in your own way, so that The Three Little Pigs is brought to life.

NEW COLLECTION!

- A traditional fairytale in clear image form enabling the child to make their own story.
- A book which stimulates the imagination and encourages language development and oral expression.
- A snazzy bookmark to enable the use of pictograms throughout the story.
- You can follow a summary of the text using the bookmark thanks to the corresponding numbers to the pages of the story
- A fun and educational concept used in schools.

I want to eat a lion!

By Christophe Mauri & Nathalie Dieterle

Available
24,7 cm – 31,8 cm
32 pages
13,95 €

The funny story of two ogres at the zoo, in search of a lion to eat. But sometimes you bite off more than you can chew...

That day, Little Ogre felt a huge hunger pang. But rather than eat up another little child, like Big Ogre tells him to, he has another idea: Little Ogre wants to eat ... a lion! This doesn't suit big Ogre's plans: He doesn't even know what a lion looks like, he's never seen one ... So there is only one thing to do: go to the zoo, to try and satisfy the starving Little Ogre.

There, Big Ogre and Little Ogre begin their quest for a lion, but how will they recognise it? Is it this animal with wings and a beak? No, definitely not! Or maybe that one with its trunk? No, clearly not! And so it goes on until they finally come across what they had been looking for: a lion – at last! With big teeth, hook-like claws, and a belly so large and so hungry ... they run away with their tails between their legs!

In conclusion there is no doubt: it's much better to eat children.

Achab, the little rabbit is not alone in his taste for great adventure: his little sister Adelaide is also fearless, but has just disappeared...

Fear in the burrow! This morning, Mummy Rabbit is very alarmed to find an empty bed: that of Adelaide. A little note left on her pillow indicates clearly that she has gone to punish a bad high wizard. Fortunately Achab is there, reassuringly: without wasting a moment he rushes out to look for his fearless little sister! But once outside, it's not that easy. Luckily Achab can ask the animals if they saw her during her little adventure: a sulky bird of prey, a worried ferret, a very emotional wolf: all of them complain of having been bullied by the little rabbit! Would Adelaide be so fearless as to terrorise these huge wild beasts?

Box set containing 3 titles
13,95 €

The little time thief never had a great understanding of time. Seconds, minutes, hours, from dawn to twilight, all seem to relentlessly go by, the same way every day. Until he meets a little girl, one day, and all of a sudden –it all starts to make sense! Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday... how many days until he meets her again? The week, slowly and painfully goes by, never quickly enough. Will he be able to catch those fleeting minutes to be able to be with her again and spend more time by her side? Time has never been so precious: precious because they share it together.

Me first

By Nadine Brun-Cosme & Olivier Tallec

Available

32 pages
13,50 €

Leon, Max and Remy are three friends who travel together. As the book progress, you realise that they travel the world in a single file : they cross Paris, London, New York and Athens, and travel through the jungle, across grassy plains and the seaside.

But Max and Remy rely on their bigger and taller friend, Leon, to provide a comprehensive view of all the things they cross as with him in front they can't see much.

It's only when Leon told them that there is a red balloon that Max and Remy feel the urge to go in front to see it. Eventually, the three of them can finish their journey side by side with confidence to discover the world through their own eyes.

Adapted from Mozart by Pierre Coran & Charlotte Gastaut

4 November 2015
24 cm – 30 cm
32 pages
13,50 €

A tale about appearances which can sometimes be deceptive and about honesty. Based on Mozart's opera.

Papageno the bird-catcher has just come across prince Tamino who has been saved from a giant snake by the Queen of the night. In exchange the Queen has asked him to free her daughter, the beautiful Pamina, who has been captured by Sarastro a supposedly evil sorcerer. To help them, she gives a magic flute to Tamino and magic bells to the bird-catcher. Together the two men brave all dangers and as Tamino wins the heart of Pamina, Papageno finds happiness with the pretty Papagena. But evil people are not always the ones who appear to be so and with the help of the flute, Tamino and Pamina will crush the Queen of the night's scheme to rule the world.

Prisoner of the Fog

By Guillaume Gueraud & David Sala

14 October 2015
24,6 cm – 26,5 cm
32 pages
14,95 €

In the village where this tale takes place, no one trusts Lake Clameur, a mysterious and threatening lake, over which there hangs a lingering fog, even in fair weather.

But that day, captivated by a kite swirling around beneath the roofs, the young narrator of this story leaves all caution behind in order to chase this kite, the ties of which are broken. It leads him straight to Lake Clameur. There, in the midst of the fog, he sees a shadowy figure of a young girl with very long white hair. He dares to get closer. He learns from her translucent lips that she is a prisoner of the fog. A legendary captive whose breath would free her from this invisible grasp. But her breath is trapped in a shell in the middle of the lake, concealed in the rocks. Without a doubt, this will involve diving!

This is what the young boy does, who then resurfaces, triumphantly, with the precious shell in his hand. As soon as he opens it the fog trails away, revealing on the shore a young girl waiting, his kite in her hand.

A fantastic tale with all the hallmarks of a classic, intensified by the illustrations of David Sala.

April and the Extraordinary World The novel book

1941. The world is radically different from that recorded in history books. Napoleon V reigns over France where, the scholars have mysteriously disappeared, depriving humanity of key inventions, like the rest of the world for the past 70 years. Unaware of most notably radio, television, electricity, aviation, and the combustion engine, this universe has sunk into a technology coma, as if stuck asleep in the 19th Century, powered by coal and steam.

It is in this bizarre world that a young girl, April, begins to search for her parents, missing scientists, together with Darwin, her talking cat and Julius, a young street urchin.

April and the Extraordinary World is an animation which could become a classic!

Casterman offers two simultaneous adaptations: an illustrated novel and a picture book.

Beneath the Mountain

By Anne Herbauts

4 November 2015

It's a funny place, a concentration of heat beneath the mountain, in this harsh and cold country: the strange grocery shop, its ramshackle shelves, its jars, the thoughtful cat and its red ladder.

For a long time, there has been magic in the air. But it's in the middle of winter when a food shortage threatens, that the magic truly takes shape. That day, when Madame of the grocery shop climbs up the stepladder to retrieve the last of the supplies at the very top edge of the shelves, the jars in her arms become larger and larger as she climbs down. And on this icy day, word quickly spreads about the magic stepladder, which knew how to turn small things into bigger things.

It was forgotten perhaps, what the cat had said so well:

"If a crumb climbs up a step,
a whole loaf will climb down a stool"

Playing with our perceptions in a humorous and poetic way, Anne Herbaut allows words and images to dance masterfully to create delight once again.

A mountain, a strange grocery shop, the wisdom of a cat, a winter that lingers: the simple ingredients of a story full of magic as presented by the highly talented Anne Herbauts.

The story of a lion who, bored by his rural life in the savannah, seeks excitement and opportunity in the city of light. On arrival in Paris the lion is disappointed to find that despite his size, people barely pay attention to him, not even when he lets out a ferocious roar on the busy underground Metro.

Taking in the sights and sounds of Paris this beautifully illustrated book successfully conveys the experience of being a stranger in a new city and the process of understanding our own identity.

My megabook of good manners

By Elisabeth Bami & Marie Paruit

Available
24 cm – 30 cm
40 pages
14.95 €

At the cross between picture books and non-fiction, this new collection opens on two topics: politeness and opposites. In The Megabook of Politeness, 20 different everyday situations (such as 'on public transport', 'at school', 'in the bathroom', 'at the table', 'in family'...) are widely illustrated in four-colour. Each situation is given two attitude examples, each presented by two different characters (alternatively male and female) called Polite and Impolite and surrounded by a cast of human and animal characters. The narration comes in short descriptive rhyming bursts for each side of the situation and always concludes on the idea that being polite, far from being a constraint, is what makes living together easier and also makes everyone happier.

MYTHOLOGY IN GRAPHIC NOVEL

Theseus and the Minotaur

By Béatrice Bottet & Émilie Harel

16 September 2015
20,4 cm – 27,3 cm
48 pages
12,50 €

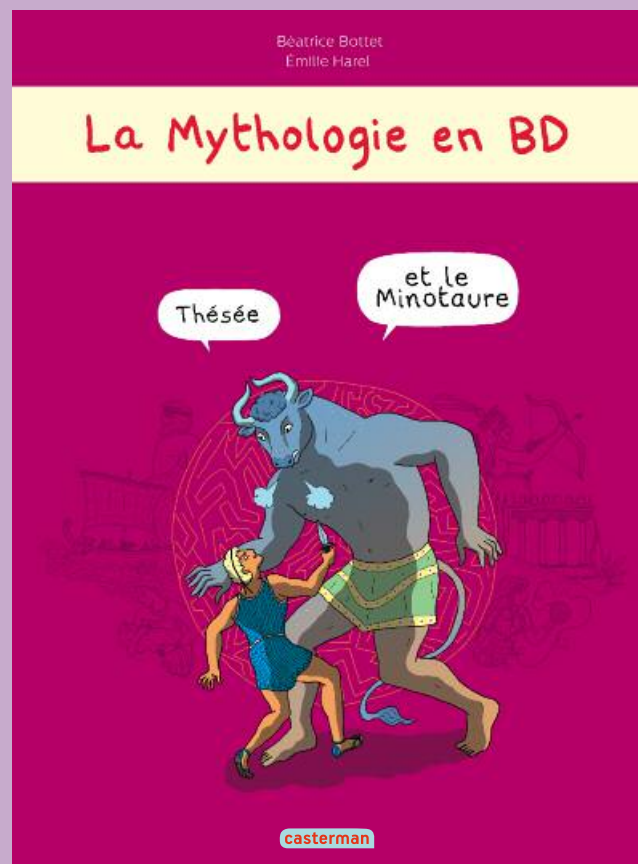

Inspired by the success of the History of France in Comics, Mythology in a Graphic Novel format is primarily geared towards students at the end of primary school (8-10 years) and deals with the classic tales from mythology in an already successful format: 48 pages, 32 of which of pure comic form, accompanied by factual notes which are both fun (spot the 7 errors) and informative (illustrated historical boxes, character profiles etc...)

After the Odyssey and the Ancient Egyptian myth of Isis and Osiris, the new volume explores one of the original Greek myths: the story of Theseus and the Minotaur. Love, adventure, battle ... all of the crucial moments of the story are covered in 6 key chapters right up until Theseus' final victory who, despite the death of his father Aegeus, (whose name was given to the sea lapping the Greek coastline) is set to become one of the first great kings of Athens.

Do your dreams hide beneath your pillow?

By Anne Terral & Amélie Fontaine

Available
17 cm – 23 cm
32 pages
12,50 €

A picture book written in nursery rhyme format to take us into the wonderful whirlpool of childhood memories.

'Is a book happy to be opened for the first time?' 'Will your shadow dare one day to go far from you?' 'Do the walls regret not being able to walk?' 'How does summer morning feel about always being the first to get up?' 'And the holiday road, is it as desperate as you to put its feet in the water?' A text like a catchy nursery rhyme which accurately explores the vivid imagination of children. The poetry and the charming nostalgia of childhood are brought together in this book like no other.

Anne Terral was born in Toulouse in 1970. Editor and author, she writes for both children and adults. She lives and works in Paris. Amélie Fontaine was born in 1987. After having studied decorative arts in Paris, she launched her career in illustrated books and also works for the press. She has already published with Helium and Gallimard Jeunesse.

Ninon is always asking many questions and in this particular book she invites us to think about the concept of « beauty ».

What is beauty? What makes something beautiful? Is it to do with feelings? Is beauty subjective or objective? How to recognise a work of art when one sees one? Many questions that Ninon asks and invites the reader to think about.

In this new book the author talks in an innovative and creative way about beauty. Ninon's way of thinking improves gradually thanks to dialogue, anecdotes and the confrontation of ideas. She brings the reader to ask even more questions.

If the secondary characters in the story are inspired by what we know of the lives and traditions of the Indians at the time (names, customs, language, way of living, etc.) the main characters however also have the same preoccupations, aspirations, games and conversations as today's readers of 6 to 8 years old. Showing the Papoose "alive and kicking" in a legendary past is also making real a moment of the past which is truly inspirational! The text and illustrations are lively, fresh and full of humour.

NEW SERIES

How do you cope with the pressure imposed by your parents? This new series tackles the problems of childhood, big and small, with humour and realism.

Lea is worried. She must hand in her essay in two days and she hasn't written a single line...She won't allow herself to fail; her parents, her teacher and her friends, too used to her good marks, won't understand. To them, Lea is a genius. Burdened by such high expectation, Lea has lost her inspiration. Fortunately, the other children in the apartment block have the solution to make Lea write up her homework. And even if Lea doesn't like their idea, they deserve credit for their attempts!

How do you find your place in a big family? This new series tackles the problems of childhood, big and small, with humour and realism.

Paul is fed up with his sisters and dreams of being an only child. Gaspard, who lives alone with his mother on the floor above, offers to swap places with him for a few days. It's a deal! Paul experiences the joys of being alone and having the power to choose which TV programmes to watch. But being an only child has its disadvantages: there is no one else to lay and clear up the table, and when Gaspar's mum announces she is going out with her friends, Paul is not comfortable in the large, empty, silent apartment. And so finally, he realises he has nothing to envy his neighbour for.

Best friends for ever.

New edition in paperback format for this dynamic series of Sophie Dieuaide's very own take on police investigations in her typically humorous style.

A wave of panic is sweeping through secondary school: the classroom of the science teacher has been meticulously ransacked and on the same day, someone has littered the school canteen with food waste! These mysterious 'attacks', with the accompanying note left behind by the perpetrator as a signature, do not leave any room for doubt: those responsible must come from inside the school...with five hundred or so possible suspects, the case couldn't be more puzzling! But as puzzling as it is, it won't trip up Tim and Chloe, quite the opposite in fact: such series of mysterious events is all bound to stimulate their inquisitive nature! They take upon themselves to find the mysterious looters with methods not dissimilar to those of the FBI...

SOS College in Danger! Is the fifth title in the series of adventures of Tim and Chloe, echoing the classic features of crime novels, with the irresistible humour of Sophie Dieuaide.

Mission Secondary School
A survival guide by Antoine Lebic

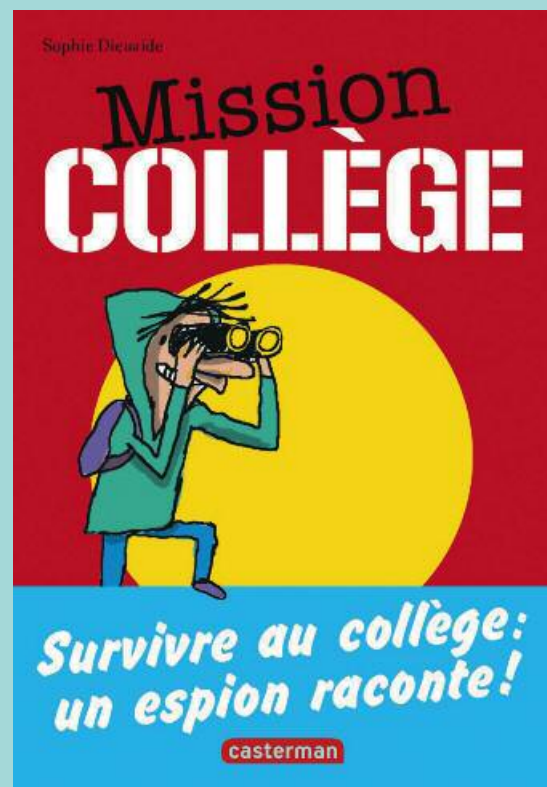

By Sophie Dieuaide

Available
13,5 cm - 19,4 cm
312 pages
9.95 €

A huge, huge challenge for Antoine Lebec and his classmates in the final year of primary school (Year 6): at last they're no longer Year 6, because year 6 is rightly over, now it's time to face the prospects of first year in secondary school (Year 7). Secondary school... a huge place, frightening and a place of terrible stories! So following only his bravery (and also a bit of his love of spy films and TV shows), Antoine decides to prepare for his entry into big school like an infiltration mission into enemy territory, to identify all the dangers within and warn the other classmates.

The assigning of roles is foolproof: his friend Magali is the devoted secretary to the secret service; his friend Jonathan is a sidekick who could be sacrificed in the action; and he himself, Antoine 007, is hero and head of the group. Except that our hero is very quickly given a hard time. Firstly because he has been given an hour of detention from the first day of school – which is taken very badly by his parents! And then because he has the misfortune to come across Big Pierre and his gang, the bullies from his primary school.

What's to be done if he finds himself in a different class from his friends? How can he avoid becoming the scapegoat of the school bullies? How can he decode the puzzling words used by the teachers (LV1, CPE, CDI...)? The hero once again, Antoine ends up discovering the answers to all his questions, which he pulls together into one document as a must-have survival guide for all his fellow students. Essential!

Antoine Lebic is in the first year of senior school (Year 7) and he's not planning on getting any nasty surprises so he is watching out for them. Off we go: he leads an investigation so that no one will ever be afraid of secondary school again. A joyful novel and hilariously informative!

The fourth and final volume of the Magic Tangram series, right at the heart of traditional China. The new investigation of the intrepid Li-Na will lead her to discover the truth about her origins.

It's summer in Hangzhou. After her adventures in the tea plantation of the Three Hills (The Mystery of the Jade Seal, Volume 3), orphan Li-Na is placed in the care of Mr Ye, the former teacher of her now deceased adopted grandmother Mrs Dong. Everything would be fine if Fu-Gui, the blue parrot to which Mr Ye is very attached, hadn't gone missing. Wanting to help her guardian, who seems about to reveal something to her, Li-Na decides to embark on a new quest with the help, of course, of her magic Tangram and her best friend Cheng.

Her investigations in the wake of an unfriendly officer nicknamed 'The North Fox' direct her to an imperial home and will eventually lead her to her mother...

Mylène is 12 years old and has had a lot on her plate since her parents divorced. As if the trauma wasn't enough, she has to deal with being bullied by a group of teenage girls who wait for her every morning at the gates of her suburban secondary school.

In a couple of months, however, Mylène's attitude develops from one of a shy teenage girl to one of a strong-willed young woman. The highly talked-about suicide of a 13-year-old boy following his bullying had got her thinking. She refuses to suffer any similar treatment ever again and is ready to take action to prevent everyone else from suffering it too. She soon becomes class rep and a young mediator at her school. In a tone both light and serious, this new book by Yaël Hassan tackles the theme of school violence through the eyes of a young teenager of today, preoccupied by a complicated family situation but also by the upheaval of the development of feelings such as love.

About the Yaël Hassan:

Yaël Hassan has become an important author in youth literature. The success of her books has liberated her writing and the subjects she writes about. She enjoys writing about family issues, relationships between generations and the problem of immigration using simple, engaging writing. She has received many awards for her work.

Manon's diary thoughts about herself

By Sophie Dieualde

Available
15 cm – 21 cm
240 pages
15,00 €

Her family is a bit complicated. On one hand, there are Manon and her mother who is depressed, has mood swings, has the blues, her Kleenex ... on the other hand; there is an apartment with her father. Her father who lives with his second wife and their children, and also his wife's first daughter. Her father wants Manon to come with them on holidays and that will not be simple.

Realistic novel with funny illustrations and caricatures and a fotonovella; Manon's thoughts are not linear. The vivid graphic translates the young girl's way of seeing things around her. The core of the story is the relationship between children and grown-ups, rebuilt families and first loves.

Penelope Green – 4 titles

By Beatrice Bottet

Available

A great series with a very strong female heroine.

The writing of this series is engaging and captivating and the world of Penelope Green is intriguing and mysterious, fraught with danger and unexpected turns of event...making each book a fast paced and very exciting read.

There are also distinct repetitive features: Penelope's fiercely independent will, the development of a semiromance with her "bodyguard", Cyprien Bonaventure, and her nose for a story (and for danger!).

Interestingly, the author has chosen to set the stories in a lost time, the late 19th century, when female characters were rarely independent, so Penelope Green is a very distinctive and unusual character, which creates a strong 'follow-ability'.

A beautiful and moving spiritual epistolary friendship.

16 year old Lina and Nour are in year 11. One lives in Sofia in Bulgaria, the other in the Parisian suburbs. Under the supervision of their teachers they begin writing to each other and soon they start exchanging secrets. Lina expresses her outrage at the corrupt state of Eastern European countries while Nour reveals to her friend the intense uneasiness which consumes her.

They gradually support each other until one day Lina announces that she is coming to visit her friend. But Nour refuses to see her.

When they ultimately meet, Nour's secret is out in the open.

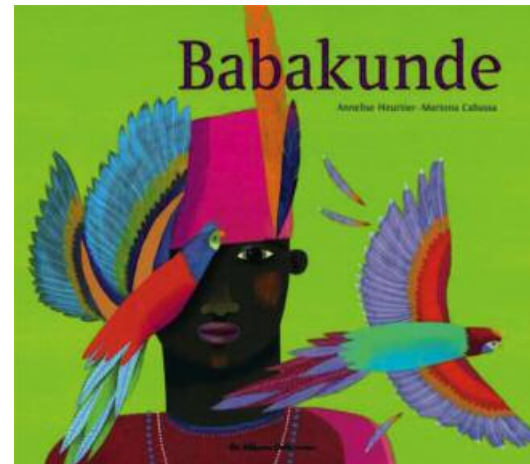

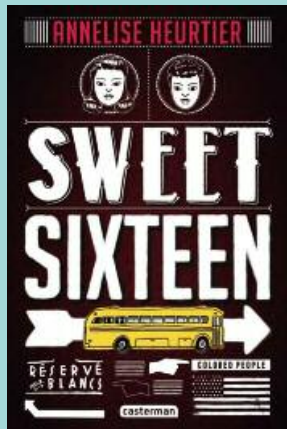

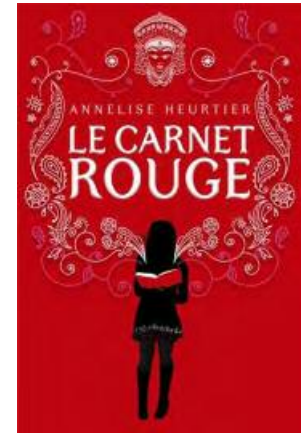

A delicate yet strong page turner!

Refuges

By Annelise Heurtier

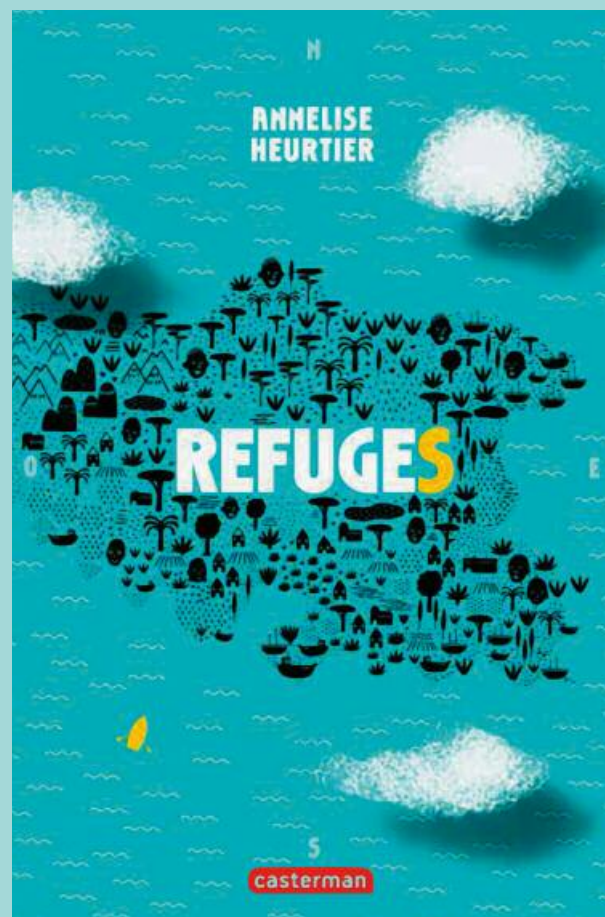

15 April 2015
14,5 cm – 20 cm
240 pages

Echoing the narrative of a young troubled teenager, this is the story of a group of immigrants fleeing their native Eritrea in a quest for a new beginning.

Summer 2006. Milla, a young Italian of 17, returns with her parents to the Island of Lampedusa to spend the summer holiday in their old family home, where she hasn't set foot in for the past 10 years. The atmosphere is very heavy, haunted by the memory of her young brother Manuele who succumbed to illness when he was only a few months old. Little by little, the breathtaking beauty of the island manages to lift Milla's spirits, and she soon makes a friend, Paola, an older student. Lampedusa, also known as the Salvation Island, gradually works its charms and seems to be holding true to its reputation for our troubled teenager. But one's definition of heaven and hell couldn't be more different...

Only a few kilometres ashore, and stacked aboard a tiny dilapidated dinghy, a group of Eritreans are trying to flee their own country after having risked their lives on many different occasions and endured many sufferings. Their memories and voices alternate with Milla's story – from the a raging sea where their lives are at stake...

Once again, Annelise Heurtier delivers a poignant and powerful piece of fiction, and manages to give the issue of immigration the voice and human dimension it deserves.

The poignant tale of imigrants in search of a new life! A novel that help children understand today's dramas.
