Watch out, I'm counting to ten... eight, nine, ten... aaaand I'm coming!

And off goes Big Bad Wolf with his big basket to look for the hidden ones. Oh! Who's there underneath the blanket, shaking? Lift the flap to uncover the small rabbit hiding! And what can you see there, behind the moving curtain? Lift the flap and discover a piglet and a small hen! And let's not forget about lifting the lid of the big wooden box where you'll find a little curly sheep, ready to join all of his friends in Big Bad Wolf's big basket! Now, it's time to eat. But eat what? Or who? Surely, not all of those little ones? No, eat together instead. And quick, so we can play hide-and-seek once more afterwards!

Brrr... It has been snowing all day and Big Bear is on his way home.

But who's hidden behind those shuddering bushes? Let's have a look, lift the flap and... oh, look who's there: Little Rabbit shaking with cold! And who's underneath Big Bear's hat now? Little Rabbit's little brother, all cosy in the warmth of Big Bear's big hat! But they're not the only ones to hide from the cold: two little birdies whose beaks were chattering behind a leaf can soon enjoy the warmth of Big Bear's scarf, and three tiny mice who were sheltering in a tree stump are being carefully rescued by Big Bear who puts them in his big basket. But let's all get in the warm, and quick, because now Big Bear himself struggles to keep warm! Luckily, Mama Bear was awaiting everyone at home, where she was getting some nice hot chocolate ready for all!

Two walks full of surprises, one set in the garden and one set in an old manor house.

The little puppies from the first book have now grown up and this time Mr Tomcat is taking them around the garden. Its inhabitants, he informs them as they follow along, are animals of the worst kind, bad-mannered, and what's more: sly and lazy! Look at them, he continues, drawing a list: simple-minded dormice, sly raccoons, short-sighted good for nothing moles... while in fact what Mr Tomcat doesn't know is that all of them are secretly preparing a birthday celebration for him. Surprise! Certainly our grumpy Mr Tomcat, is lucky after all to have such great friends! A refreshing walk in the huge garden of a house like no other... A truly magical garden, where all would dream of spending many hours!

In this stunning board book, young readers are taken on a journey around the shops of the town, with a supercilious Siamese cat as their guide. From the baker's to the butcher's and the fishmonger's, toddlers will love exploring the countless details of the book's intricate illustrations. There's also a sub-plot under the flaps... The cat doesn't know it, but a range of little animals have assembled to point her in a very particular direction – to the vet's to get vaccinated!

A Stroll through Town invites its readers to be part of the narrative. Each time they lift a flap, they help further the plot, at the expense of the somewhat irritating, if highly entertaining, cat who serves as their guide.

On the building site, Leo watches over everyone: each person must wear their hat, vest and protective footwear. Safety is important!

As the construction takes shape, he organises with the architect all the jobs for the different workers.

Helped by impressive equipment (crane, excavator), the builders are followed by carpenters, the plumbers, then the painters etc. The house gradually starts to take shape until the construction is over. Everything went well, it's a success !

At school, Gaëlle the teacher doesn't stop for a second! Always keeping an eye on the children, she retells, she explains, she comforts. What a star!

Every morning she organises the classroom before the children arrive. Then she warmly welcomes them and encourages them to start their projects. She can make anything with her hands, she knows so much! And even at breaktime she watches over everyone, especially in case of a fight!

An unmissable story in children's literature, brought to life by the art of Olivier Latyk and lace cut outs.

Dorothy and her dog Toto are swept up in a storm to the land of Oz. To get back home, Dorothy needs the advice of the Wizard of Oz: only he will be able to help her go back home to Kansas. On the yellow brick road leading to the Emerald City, Dorothy and Toto meet a Scarecrow who wants a brain, a Tin man who wants a heart, and a cowardly Lion who wants to have courage. A great adventure awaits these five friends before their dreams may come true...

Nils Holgersson is a little boy with a tendency to dislike everyone. One day he is mean to an elf who had been watching over his family, so the elf decides to take revenge and makes Nils very small. Despite being annoyed by his new size, Nils can do nothing but listen to the reproaches of the animals he had previously been mean to. He forces himself to get used to his new size when he responds to the white gander's call to the wild geese to depart for Lapland. Nils climbs onto the gander and joins the geese.

Along with them he embarks on a fabulous voyage where he meets many interesting people who influence him. When he returns home he will be a totally different boy.

POP-UP

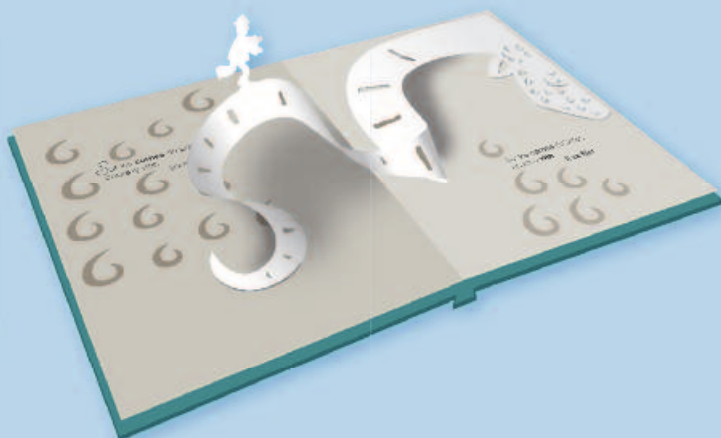

This poem was written in 1917 during the first world war by Paul Fort and has become a great classic. It invites the reader to find happiness in the small things of life, to observe our surroundings, and to become aware of the beauties of the world.

Happiness is a temporary state which comes and goes and it is important to know how to recognise it.

Marie-Hélène's diorama adaptation (three dimension reproduction of each scenery) brings depth and perspective. Each line of text suddenly comes to life.

A breath-taking book which certainly finds resonance in today's world!

€ 14.50

Mr Postmouse's back, and he's off on a visit to distant lands of imagination...

Mr Postmouse is up and ready to make his deliveries, just like every morning. But today he's not driving his van – he's taking off in a rocket!

Whether he's in candyland or robot country, meeting mermaids, monsters and unicorns, travelling twenty thousand leagues under the sea, ascending high into the clouds, making his way past elves or whizzing around giants, nothing can stop Mr Postmouse when he's got parcels to deliver!

With a passion for storytelling and a flair for combining myths and legends with a vivid imagination, Marianne Dubuc herself admits that she had a lot of fun writing the third volume of Mr Postmouse's adventures...

A stunning picture book that charts the progress of a journey through fantasy, with inventive and surprising twists along the way.

Never-satisfied suits his name well. As soon as he is out of his eggshell the little chick constantly complains.

He is jealous of every animal that he comes across, and demands that Nature change his legs, beak, feathers... as a result of these changes he becomes a platypus, the only egg-laying mammal.

A tale of origins which treats themes of difference and rejection with subtility and humour, but also deals with bad character.

Fairies

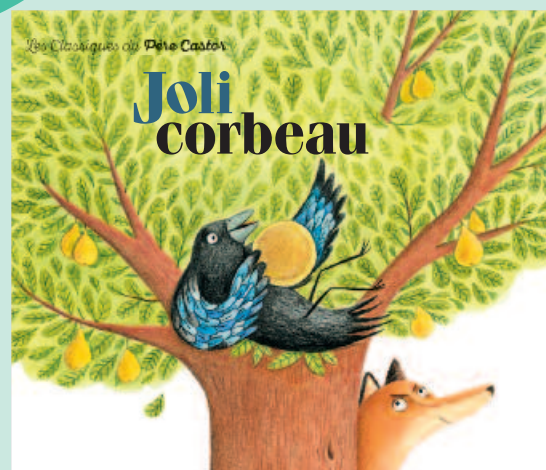

By Kochka & Charles Perrault / Nicolas Duffaut

14 June 2017

A magical fairy tale by Charles Perrault.

Two sisters separately meet the same fairy. The first sister, who is kind and loving but bullied by both her mother and her sibling, is given a gift – with every word she says, a jewel falls from her lips. The second sister, who is wicked and dishonest, has a spell cast on her – whenever she speaks, she spits out a cold-blooded animal. Ultimately, the sisters' different approaches receive a fitting form of compensation...

A crow finds some cheese on a farm, and rests with it on a pear tree branch.

Then follows a cat, a dog and a cow who all want to take the cheese. But there's nothing they can do, the Crow has made it her own. That is, until the arrival of a cunning fox, who flatters the crow... and the inevitable happens: the crow opens her beak to thank the fox and the fox gets the cheese.

Inspired by the Greek master of fables, Aesop.

Thumbelina

By Hans Christian Andersen & Sophie Lebot

14 June 2017

Thumbelina – the little girl the size of a thumb – and her struggle for freedom.

Thumbelina is small and very pretty. She's carried off to be married twice – first by an ugly frog and then by a beetle. Thumbelina escapes and seeks refuge with the mouse and her friend the mole, but then she's forced to marry him. Poor Thumbelina!

Beauty and the Beast

By Madame Leprince de Beaumont & Annette Marnat

15 March 2017
24 x 30 cm
32 pages
€ 13.50

A young girl called Belle sacrifices herself to save her father, who is condemned to death for having cut a rose in the garden of a terrible monster, the Beast. So she takes the place of her father, as prisoner in the castle. But against all the odds, the Beast spares Belle.

A love blossoms between the two of them, freeing the Beast of his terrible appearance and returning him to human form once more.

An adaptation close to the original, embellished by the illustrations of Annette Marnat.

Golem's Shadow

from 11 years old

By Éliette Abécassis & Benjamin Lacombe

The legend of Golem told through the eyes of a little girl, Zelmira, who lives in Prague. In these troubled times when Jews are persecuted by the powers that rule, the Maharal, a strong believer, decides to create a creature which is capable of defending them. A strange ceremony takes place which Zelmira witnesses, hiding in the shadows. It's then that she sees a strange creature, made of four elements and totally under the command of its creator. Thanks to this creature, called Golem who has no free will, no one can now harm the Jews.

Understanding the strong bond which has formed between the little girl and the Maharal, the advisor to the king stops this balance of power. Because once Golem is captive, the Jews won't have anyone to defend them. When Zelmira is freed by The Golem, he begins to change its behaviour, now it will no longer obey orders and becomes violent.

Maharal and Zelmira succeed in deactivating him, at least for a while.

A story about the perils of greed and the value of friendship and acceptance.

THE AMAZING ADVENTURES OF ONE OF THE GREATEST HEROES IN GREEK MYTHOLOGY.

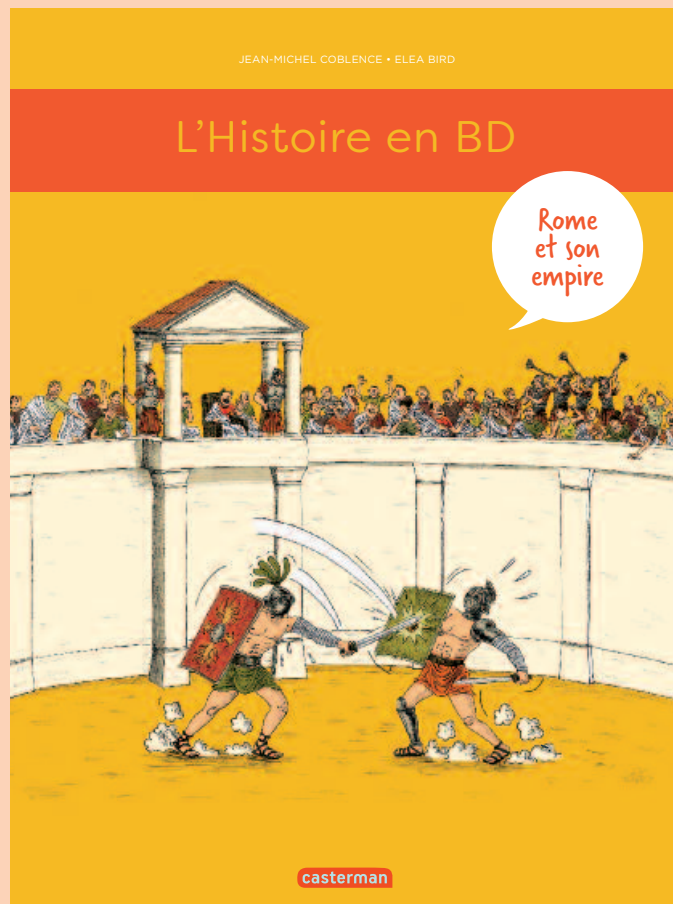

After usurping the throne, Pelias agrees to relinquish power to Jason only if he completes an impossible task – going to Colchis to find the mythical golden fleece that's owned by the mighty King Aeetes and guarded by a fearsome dragon... Thankfully, Jason isn't alone when he sets off on his journey, with the gods ensuring that the finest possible crew is on hand to accompany him. With the help of Heracles, Castor, Pollux, and thirty more legendary heroes, as well as the Argo – a formidable ship with a prophecy-producing prow – perhaps the impossible is just about possible. Especially when it looks as though Aeetes' beautiful sorceress daughter Medea may not be immune to Jason's charms...

Comic books are great for developing reading skills – this is an idea that’s endorsed by teachers and encouraged in the primary-school curriculum (‘improving reading ability by exploring different genres’)

The comic-book format has a lot to offer: it's highly accessible, and a great way of easing children into reading.

- Small blocks of very short text make reading seem simpler
- There are lots of pictures – these help children to understand the story at their own pace
- Comic books are perfect for bridging the gap between having adults read picture books aloud to children and children reading by themselves
- A format that children enjoy, and one that encourages them to read for their own pleasure

The series

In this apartment block, just like any other, the inhabitants face the little challenges in life ... Fortunately, there is always someone to help out their neighbour.

The understanding between the author and the illustrator is such that sometimes the illustration reflects the text, and sometimes the illustration interprets the text which follows in the character speech bubbles or even finishes it off. Everything is done for the ease of the reader since we can go from one illustration to the next, read them as clues, questions, or even answers.

Ahead of Mother's Day and Father's Day the children have decided to make presents themselves. A little recycling, some imagination and just one euro each is all they need to buy some nice paper. But Corentin has no pocket money... How can he find a euro ? Steal it? No, the children organise a car boot sale to refill their piggy banks by getting rid of old toys !

A dream trip for a young girl... And new friends to make along the way!

Mentine is off to study English in New York, where she's put up by a host family who live in the heart of Manhattan. Despite Mentine doing all she can not to step out of line, her obedient-and-hardworking-girl performance earns her the scorn of her pen pal Joyce, for whom Mentine is one big annoyance. Mentine realises that Joyce's family isn't faring well, and discovers that Joyce herself is actually an amazing girl who's just unhappy living in a home that's reaching its breaking point. Martine's set to meet some unforgettable people...

- Hugely popular author and illustrator.
- The fourth volume in the Mentine series hotly anticipated by young female readers...
- 27,000 copies sold across the series, as a whole.

THE STORY OF THE WORST AND BEST
YEAR OF MY LIFE.

- Strong, inventive and authentic writing from an author who's proving wildly successful.
- The YA book of the year and a generation.

"Marie Pavlenko's writing is a rainbow. Her manner of speech and tone make us laugh, cry and bring on all sorts of emotions. It is beautiful, tragic at times, but mostly incredibly funny".

Macha Séry – Le Monde

Debbie lacks confidence, has a best friend who's more keen on spending time with her amazing kisser of a boyfriend than her and she's got some pretty important exams to sit in summer. Her family life is a mess, her dog has bad breath and her beloved Victor is in love with somebody else. It's going to be a hard year, but with the help of two new friends and a little time, Debbie's about to carve her own path through life and do some serious growing up along the way. Humour, suspense, broken hearts and a healthy dose of friendship come together in what's set to be the next YA fiction bestseller...

- A moving account of teenage love and a powerful commentary on disability

- Annelise Heurtier's signature writing style – dynamic, poetic, authentic and musical

When Swann visits a flea market to buy the Gibson he's wanted ever since he can remember, he falls in love with Joanna the moment he sees her. There's something he doesn't notice, though – Joanna's in a wheelchair. Despite the concerns and complications that Joanna's disability brings with it, the two teenagers fall deeply in love.

When she learns that her cousin has been accepted into the Paris Opera Ballet, however, the otherwise irrepressible Joanna is suddenly sullen. Joanna always dreamed of dancing, but she'll never be able to.

Swann realises that he has to do all he can to make Joanna's dream come true.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN HELL MAKES ITS WAY INTO PARADISE?

- The first volume in a series of escape-based novels
- As readers make their way through the book, the countdown clock continues to tick away
- A new opportunity to explore the action genre

Ted's got himself mixed up in some sinister goings-on – he's been asked to take a bag from Paris to Bordeaux. On the face of it, there's nothing too unusual about the journey... Of course, nothing goes to plan. With the two thugs that are hot on his heels proving as dangerous as they are dim, he locks himself inside his compartment, trapped in a web of diabolical machinations and unsure whether or not he'll make it out alive...

By the same author:

- Alone in Hell: a gripping crime novel about a missing-persons case
- The Gazelle: a book about sports and surpassing oneself

This is the story of a special-forces unit that investigates dark and disturbing crimes – murders committed by reckless monsters who leave a trail of innocents in their wake. When the IBLIS virus strikes, it has been known to turn some of the infected into ghouls who kill anyone they encounter. And it is only the cops who can fight them, stop them and help them to look after themselves.

This is the story of Léon Markowicz, the man in charge of the unit – a brilliant cop, a dragfooted giant and a terrible father who has driven away his daughters in the hope of protecting them. He is now forced to welcome Fleur and Adélaïde back to his home, forced to learn how to live not just with them, but for them. Despite the danger that he is putting them in by doing that.

This is the story of Diane, the young police captain – recently transferred to the unit because of her history of violence and about to discover its strange rules and the eccentric, twisted and troubled officers who will guide her in the art of war.

This is the story of Antonin Antonin, the seventeen-year-old amateur tightrope walker – in love with Fleur and attempting to find his way while balancing a revered soulmate and a cheerless stepfather.

This is the story of Adélaïde, the ten-year-old who is no longer just a little girl – convinced that the Unit's secrets can turn anyone mad, but keen to find out more about them all the same. And that means she is putting her life on the line.

Their fates will soon collide.

Joining forces, they will learn to look for the good in the depths of despair and find light in the darkness.
